WORK AT THE SHOW

WOMEN'S CLUBS OF DISTRICT RESPOND HEARTILY TO CALL FOR HELP

Nothing is more gratifying in the history of the evolution of the Glendale Free Flower show than the manner in which the local institutions have come forward with aid in the way of displays. The Woman's clubs have been particularly helpful in this matter. They have not only as individuals stimulated many to take part in the show, but they have also sent in exhibits of their own.

The Foothills' Club of North Glendale has made a special effort to do something worthy of the occasion. The display of flowers and shrubs that the ladies of this club have arranged is one of the finest sights in the show.

Other Woman's clubs have also come forward. The Glendale Tuesday Afternoon club has sent a floral basket which will find other rivals in the basket sent by the Woman's club of La Crescenta, the Woman's club of Littlelands and the Woman's Twentieth Century club of Eagle Rock.

The Thursday Afternoon club of Tropico has contributed a wonderful floral design, which says a great deal for the ingenuity and taste of the ladies who got it up.

The large marquee on the corner of Fifth and Brand is now a scene of constantly increasing activity. Mr. and Mrs. Ackley, Mr. M. B. Hartmann, Mr. Caruthers, Mrs. Nanno Woods, Mrs. Ella Richardson, Mr. J. H. Woods, and Mr. Smith of the Sanitarium are all working away as though their lives depended on their exertions. There is now no doubt that the show will be a success and this is largely due to the energy displayed by Mrs. Woods and her able lieutenants.

Among the outside firms that are busy today installing their exhibits is the Matthew Garden Craft company, which is installing many of its beautiful pergolas and other garden furnishings.

The Germain Seed company has sent in a most exquisite floral exhibit, which is being placed in the center of the pavilion and has its beauty set off by the two picturesque fountains that play, one on each side of it.

Carloads of ivy and ferns are arriving and the committee can use all of this decorative greenery that can be sent it. The pavilion is gradually being transformed into a scene of beauty.

Among the striking exhibits of the show will be that of Mrs. Fred O'Brien of Pacific avenue, who is to have an exhibit of 1000 roses of every kind. The Show officials are delighted with the prospect before them. They feel that they have their reward.

JUDGMENT IN ASSAULT

In the cast of the people versus V. N. Banbrock and S. L. Lyons, both of Los Angeles, accused of assault, Judge Whomes has found the accused guilty and has ordered them to appear before him, Thursday April 20, for sentence. The assault took place April 9, on San Fernando road and also on West Eighth street. The case went to trial April 14, before a petit jury of eight jurors, who, having listened to testimony finally disagreed, four being for conviction and four against. The jury was dismissed and it was agreed by the attorney of the accused to waive a new trial and leave the case for judgment in the hands of Judge Whomes.

After consideration Judge Whomes finds that an assault was committed by Banbrock and Lyons, who even after the first encounter when they might have had the excuse of being provoked, deliberately followed C. F. Harrington, the complaining witness, and again assaulted him on West Eighth street. The judge finds that the assault was committed and was unjustifiable, and orders the two accused men to appear before him April 20 for sentence.

MERRY HOUSE PARTY

Mrs. Leona Schremp is chaperoning a merry party of the younger society buds, who left for Santa Monico this morning, in Edward U. Emery's seven-passenger Cadillac. Mrs. Schremp and young proteges will spend the remainder of the week at the beach and when these six girls return, Misses Waunita Emery, Marjorie Imler, Katherine Renshaw, Catherine Phillips, Esther Schremp and Margaret Boucher, they will relate many incidents connected with their sojourn at their cottage in Santa Monica, swimming at Ocean Park and dancing and attending amusements at Venice.

STARTS OWN INDUSTRY

NORMAL GRADUATE CREATES THRIVING BUSINESS IN HOMEMADE MARMALADE

Miss Carrie Wolfe, who is one of the prominent exhibitors at the Glendale Free Flower Show, is a graduate of the Normal School of Home Economics of Santa Barbara. The school is under the principalship of Miss Edna Rich, who is favorably known in this city. Miss Wolf's father is the owner of a large orange ranch on San Fernando road and the young lady has been accustomed to oranges ever since she was a little creature running about among the blossoms.

This familiarity with oranges doubtless influenced her in her choice of a life occupation as she began from an early age to take a profound and intelligent interest in orange and other fruit products. By and by she became known for her knowledge of the secr ts of making marmalade, which is by no means an easy thing to make. Most housewives never attempt it or if they do they get disgusted with the watery productions that follow their attempts.

Miss Wolfe has succeeded where so many fail. She is probably the first graduate of any normal institute to take up such an industry. She has done so with success and because her marmalades and other jams and jellies are just a little better than the ordinary products, she is rapidly obtaining a market for them at prices away above the ordinary rates. Her marmalade is in special demand and she has always more orders than she can at present comfortably fill.

This perfection in the creation of fine marmalade is not the result of haphazard attempts. It is the growth of a lifetime with the addition of six months of daily experimentation which at last resulted in the discovery of a perfect method.

Miss Wolfe will have a booth for her exhibit at the Show and will be able to demonstrate that her products are free from adulteration, and absolutely pure.

Mrs. Nanno Woods, who was instrumental in getting Miss Wolfe to exhibit at the show is hoping that the result of her exhibit will be that other young women of Glendale will be stimulated thereby to take up this field and also by reason of Miss Wolfe's example to find other domestic fields in which a little ingenuity and a special pains will produce something that will amply remunerate them.

Miss Wolfe has also originated another idea. Everybody has seen the miniature boxes of oranges that a certain firm puts up for sale at one dollar apiece for sending to friends in the East. Miss Wolfe has a similar box which contains, besides the oranges, a small jar of her exquisite marmalade. The idea is worth noting as it has already found ample justification in the demand that it has created for just such a production.

This and many other ideas will be found at the Free Flower Show of Glendale. There is not the slightes doubt but that the Show will be the means of stimulating many to production and achievement in various fields.

BENEFIT FOR DOROTHY BONNELL

Talented little Dorothy Bonnell, who was so seriously injured in an automobile accident three weeks ago, still lies in a semi-conscious condition at the Glendale Sanitarium. A benefit is being arranged in her interest, whereby it is hoped sufficient funds will be realized to properly care for her. Only careful nursing can save the life of this precious child, and the committee in charge appeals to the citizens of Glendale to give this benefit their hearty support, make it Glendale's tribute to this unfortunate little sufferer. Mr. Jensen of the Palace Grand theatre has most generously given the use of his theatre free of all expense to this cause. The Glendale Sanitarium has provided substantial reduction in their charges for the care of the child and Mr. Cowan kindly gives up the space in his va'ued paper for publicity to this benefit.

Committee in charge.

FLOWERS IN WINDOWS

It has been suggested that bouquets of flowers be placed in store and office windown in all business houses in Glendale, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week, these being the days of the First Annual Free Flower Show in the Glendale community.

WEATHER FORECAST—Fair tonight and Thursday; westerly winds.

WILSON THREATENS BREAK WITH GERMANY

PRESIDENT TELLS CONGRESS HE HAS DEMANDED COMPLETE CHANGE IN SUBMARINE WARFARE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 19.—In the hall of the House of Representatives, at 1 o'clock this afternoon, President Wilson appeared before the joint session of congress, and made his much-looked-for communication concerning the submarine situation. Recapitulating the various events that had led up to the present situation, especially the repeated violations on the part of Germany of promises made that unarmed merchantmen would not be molested, since Feb. 15, the president concluded: "I therefore deemed it my duty to call on the Imperial government to state whether it still intended to prosecute relesntlessly the campaign against unarmed neutral vessels and stated that the United States must consider such conduct not in accord with the recognized dictates of humanity and would be forced to the conclusion that there was only one course to pursue and unless the Imperial government should immediately declare its intention to abandon this method of warfare this government would have no choice but to sever diplomatic relations with the government of the German empire altogether."

INSIST ON WITHDRAWAL AMERICAN TROOPS

MEXICAN AMBASSADOR INSTRUCTED TO DEMAND THAT UNITED STATES EVACUATE MEXICO

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

MEXICO CITY, April 19.—It is officially stated here that the Mexican ambassador, Arredondo, has been instructed to insist on the withdrawal of the American troops from Mexico at once on the ground that the Villistas have been completely dispersed. It was not indicated whether or not this demand was one of the many recent official communications to the United States government or whether it was a new demand.

RUSSIANS DRIVE TURKS OUT OF TREBIZOND

MUSSULMANS EXPECTED TO MAKE STAND ABOUT SIX MILES WEST OF CITY

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

PETROGRAD, April 19.—Following the fall of Trebizond, which the Muscovite troops took from the Turks after a sanguinary battle on the banks of the Kara Dere river, the Turks have entrenched themselves in positions recently prepared by them under the direction of their German officers. It is expected that they will attempt to make a stand there. Trebizond is a great gain for Russia. It commands the chief trade route from Persia and Central Asia. It was held by 60,000 Turkish troops and was a position of great strength.

GERMANS TORPEDO NORWEGIAN STEAMER

TEUTONS SINK UNARMED FREIGHTER FROM CHRISTIANIA—SUBMARINE GAVE NO WARNING

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

LISBON, April 19.—According to statements made by the captain and crew of the Norwegian barque Terje Briker, which was conveying a neutral cargo, the vessel was sunk by a German or Austrian submarine off the coast of Portugal this morning. No warning was given and no attempt was made to rescue or aid the crew. Another statement says that the vessel hit a mine.

BELLIGERENTS FIGHT IN MIDST OF FOG

GERMANS VIOLENTLY SHELL FRENCH POSITIONS ALONG VERDUN FRONT WITHOUT EFFECT

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

PARIS, April 19.—It was officially announced here today that thick fogs all along the Verdun front and on the western front also had prevented anything more than a prolonged artillery duel. The Germans furiously shelled Hill 304 and Dead Man's hill without effecting any damage or loss commensurate with the amount of ammunition expended. Infantry attacks were not attempted.

GERMAN TROOPS CROSS THE GREEK BORDER

TEUTON AND BULGARIAN FORCES BURN BRIDGES AND DESTROY RAILWAYS IN HELLENIC TERRITORY

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

SALONIKI, April 19.—German troops made a raid into Greek territory today and destroyed several bridges and railway lines, burned isolated houses, looted the country in the vicinity of the border and caused a great deal of damage. The Bulgarians also sent detachments which joined in the work of spoliation and murder. It is believed that this is German retaliation on Greece for having permitted the rehabilitated Servian army to march through Greek territory.

LAUDS FLOWER SHOW

W. B. KIRK SAYS IT IS OUR DUTY TO CULTIVATE APPRECIATION OF NATURE AND ART

"Like greatness, some 'are born' with a sense of appreciation of the higher things of life, some 'acquire' it, and some have to have it thrust upon them," said W. B. Kirk, well-known insurance man of Glendale, in speaking of Glendale's Free Flower Show. "As a boy, I do not remember flowers except as being nice things to have around for sick people; paintings, except as daubs, not nearly as pretty as some highly colored chromo; and classical music as an awful bore, not to be compared with ordinary music. But these things have been thrust upon me till very few people, I believe, enjoy them more than I do now.

"It is duty, in an educational way, to cultivate in our children and in the mass of the people, this spirit of appreciation of nature and art which many have not except it be cultivated.

"I think it is very laudable in Mrs. Woods and others who have promoted and are pushing the Glendale Flower Show to use their time and talent in thus promoting the material interest of Glendale in an advertising way beside giving pleasure and awakening this interest in the esthetic and beautiful among us who have done little or nothing toward the enterprise. It does seem a shame that with all of our facilities for the propagation of flowers, we grow so comparatively few of them. The main trouble is that, like our climate which is so uniformly good that we forget how nice it is until visitors call our attention to it or we have to leave it an uncomfortable season, we are so used to flowers at all times of the year in our beautiful southland, that we fail to consider what a large part they play in the setting of our homes and in the attractiveness of our city to visitors. At small expense and without a great deal of trouble and work we could double and treble the quantity of flowers we grow, and what a great advertising scheme it would be!

"Now that the city is able to clean up the vacant lots and thus do away with the eyesores of that character, which we had to endure so long, if we can imbue the spirit of adornment and beautifying the individual homes of our citizens in those ways which are so inexpensive that all can have a part, we are doing a great thing for the little city we all love to call 'home.'"

WORKERS AT THE SHOW

Quite a transformation is being effected in the appearance of the big pavilion where the Glendale Free Flower Show is to be held April 20, 11 and 22. The bare sides of the huge tent are now clothed with soft shades of green. Ivy and other trailing plants are gradually changing the whole scene into a fairyland. Various exhibits, such as will not spoil, are being set in place.

Naturally the greater part of the exhibits will arrive tonight and Thursday morning early. The diligent workers in the tent are having their hands full arranging and placing the exhibits in position. Those who are engaged in this and other necessary work are: Mr. H. C. Ackley, and Mrs. H. C. Ackley, who is a director of the Glendale Garden society; Mrs. Ella Richardson, Mr. M. B. Hartmann, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Reader, Mr. J. H. Gervais, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Barnard, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Seaman, Mr. Ernest Bowen, Mr. J. H. Woods, Mr. Paul Hurst, Herbert Woods, Paul Fromm, Mr. T. D. Ogg of N. Kenwood. Special thanks are due to Mr. E. R. Naudain, of the Glendale Electric company, who has kindly completed all the electric installments in the marquee without making any charge.

FEDERATION EXECUTIVE BOARD

The Executive Board of the Federation of Parent-Teacher associations met Monday, at the Intermediate school. There was a good attendance. The board took up the consideration of the Keating-Owen Federal Child Labor bill. After considerable discussion it was resolved to send a resolution indorsing the bill to the State Convention of the P. T. A. Federations, at Santa Ana, May 24-25. The federation also voted that their president should represent them at that convention. It was reported that the federation had had a most successful year's work and now numbered 614 paid-up members. Mrs. Preston reported the closing-up of the magazine and emblem contest and said that here was an excellent prospect that the Glendale Federation might win.

TRIBUTE TO MRS. LEE

NOBLE CHRISTIAN MOTHER HAS PASSED TO HER HEAVENLY REWARD

As a sudden shock to her many relatives and friends came the news Wednesday morning of Mrs. William Lee's sudden illness, which, notwithstanding all that human aid and love could accomplish, so soon proved fatal. She was spared to her family only four short days, passing from this life Saturday evening, April 15, 1916, at the age of seventy-three years, four months and fifteen days.

Sarah Catherine Hardin was born near New London, in Henry county, Iowa, Dec. 1, 1842. She was united in marriage to William Lee March 30, 1862. To this union were born four children, a daughter, Charity Gannaway, mother of Genevieve Gannaway, who preceded her fourteen years ago; a son, who died in infancy and William W. and Edward M. Lee, two sons, who with their families survive her.

Three months ago, on the 18th of January, she lost her life companion, who had been an invalid under her constant care for fifteen months. Her devotion and sacrifice in his affliction were a clear illustration, indicative of her character, revealing patience, faithfulness, and loving service.

Her Christian life was inspiring to those who knew her. She was converted and united with the Methodist church, in early years. She took an active interest in the work of the church. In her early years she was an efficient leader in its work, having been superintendent of the Sunday school, and president of the Ladies' Aid society for many years.

How secure she was in the foundation of her faith may be surmised by a remark she made to her pastor, while in her last sickness. To him she said, "I have lived for this hour." She thus faced death without any fear, and the same patient smile, so familiar to her friends, she carried to the end.

She loved her family individually. In the few remaining hours, she called each one to her side, and to each she left a message and a blessing.

A goodly heritage is the influence of a full and earnest Christian life. A noted Divine published a few weeks ago an essay on the subject, "Others," setting out consideration for others as a first rule in each step of life. An earnest, devoted, Christian life merges itself into the widening circle of the lives of "others." Such an example and such a heritage has she left us.

She, like her husband, was the last of her family to answer death's summons.

The funeral was held at 2 p. m. Tuesday April 18, at the parlors of the Jewel City Undertaking company. The services were conducted by Rev. B. Dudley Snudden, pastor of the First Methodist church, assisted by Rev. C. R. Norton.

Mrs. Leora Cammack, Mrs. Earl Starkey, and Messrs. C. D. Lusby and Ralph Lusby, sang very sweetly, "Saved by Grace," "Abide With Me," and "Nearer My God to Thee," Mrs. Cammack singing as a solo "Crossing the Bar."

Six lady friends, Mrs. M. P. Harrison, Mrs. C. D. Lusby, Mrs. H. A. Wilson, Mrs. Henry Johnston, Mrs. Wm. B. Crocker and Mrs. D. M. Devore, bore her body to its last resting place beside that of her husband in Forest Lawn cemetery.

A large company of relatives and friends, many of whom formerly resided at New London, Iowa, joined with the family in paying their last tribute of respect to her memory

The love of her friends was shown in the many and beautiful floral offerings.

"Build thee more stately mansions,
O my soul!
As the swift seasons roll;
Leave the low-vaulted past,
Let each new temple, nobler than the last,
Shut thee from heaven with dome more vast.
Till thou at length are free,
Leaving thine outgrown shell by life's unresting sea."

FRESHMAN ORATION

ROBERT CARMACK

The Effect of the Boy Scout Movement Upon Future Citizenship

During the past century the world has accomplished great wonders for the material welfare of mankind. It has built great dams and reservoirs that more people might live; mammoth ocean liners; and numerous labor saving devices. Involved in producing these wonders have been five principal factors—men, material, machinery, money and markets. It seems inconsistent to believe that man who has produced these wonders is the least developed of his resources.

It was during the South African war that General Sir Robert Baden-Powell was awakened to the recognition of the unused and undeveloped energies of the growing boy, which if intelligently employed would prove an enormous asset to the nation as well as the individual. From this awakening and from the ideas gained from former experiments with boys grew the Boy Scout movement, which was first organized in England in 1907. There the movement grew so rapidly that at the end of two years nearly 400,000 boys were enlisted under the Boy Scout banner. The movement then became world-wide and the Boy Scouts of America were organized in 1910 by prominent men of this country.

The purpose of the movement is not to parallel other institutions but on the other hand to offer a new way to solve an old and vital problem. To set up a standard for boys during their adolescence period; to develop those qualities of self reliance and straightforwardness which are lacking in our educational institutions, and to develop an efficient future citizenship. It accomplishes these purposes through the co-operation of competent men who give their services as scout masters in directing the scout program. This program provides a profitable environment for the boy in offering him recreation and mental training along lines which will tend to form those habits that are necessary to success. The forming of these habits is stimulated by simple laws working through the whole organization, which laws are: A scout is trustworthy, loyal and helpful. He is friendly, courteous, and kind. A scout is cheerful, thrifty and obedient. He is brav clean and reverent. Each one of these laws means something definite to the boy. For instance, a scout is trustworthy. A scout's honor is to be trusted. If he were to violate his honor by telling a lie or by cheating or by not doing exactly a given task when trusted on his honor so to do, he may be directed to hand over his scout badge. A scout is clean. He keeps clean in body and thought, stands for clean speech, clean sports, clean habits, and travels with a clean crowd. A great man has said of this one law: "Clean sports put up the bars against gambling, which goes hand in hand with the mischief of the street and opens the door to every crime on the calendar. A scout is reverent. He is faithful in his religious duties and respects the convictions of others in matters of custom and religion. The movement has been formed on such broad lines as to offer the greatest possible freedom in matters of religion and embraces all classes and creeds. The application of these laws together with other interest studies such as, First Aid, Campcraft, Life Saving, and Signaling, make it a pleasure for the boy to carry them out.

"Do a Good Turn Daily." This motto was adopted to develop in the boy that unselfishness which grows from doing day by day some kind deed with the right motive. The selfish ideal which many competent men possess is the main reason for the inefficiency in our municipal governments, which to be successful must have the unselfish support of all.

Besides these characteristics the movement develops patriotism and chivalry. Not military patriotism, for the movement is non-military in training, but patriotism in the sense of usefulness and devotion to the country for which our fore-fathers fought. The uniform and the drill are merely for the unity, harmony and discipline gained through their use. In chivilary the scout is like the ancient knight. He respects womanhood, is the protector of children, the weak and the aged. He stands up for the right unfailingly and is loyal to authority and law.

Let us stop for a moment and consider the sad condition in which some boys exist. Having no special environment he drifts to the street where he leads a life of indolence which leads to all sorts of crime. He meets undesirable characters, and if higher and nobler thoughts were not cultivated he would become a participant in vice and crime. He learns all the vicious habits that undermine his physical and mental strength, and make of him an object of pity and contempt.

Then one day he meets a Boy Scout who invites him to visit one of the Troop meetings. He decides to go, more in the hope of creating a disturbance than of the good he might obtain and from that moment a new path in life opens for him. At last he puts in his application for membership and is accepted. He passes his Tenderfoot test and is ready for the Scout Oath. With his comrades at attention, he faces his Scout Master and takes the oath of a Boy Scout, "On my honor, I will do my best to do my duty to God and my country and obey the scout law; to help other people at all times; to keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight." Hardly does the last word escape his lips, when, as if by magic, he is transformed from the hopeless creature of the street into a young man who some day will make a place for himself in the world. He goes forth from that meeting with a new view of life. On holidays instead of loitering about the streets, he now reports to troop headquarters with his comrades and they tramp to the river bottom or the hills to study the beauty and wonders of nature. Here he learns self-reliance and he becomes physically strong through swimming and hiking.

He becomes keen for self improvement and he practices a good turn daily from which he receives the joy of helping others. This is the purpose of the movement. To bring boys from the ruts and turn them into useful citizens.

The fundamentals of the movement are embodied in the scout oath and law, which work into the scout spirit. This is the spirit that caused Abraham Lincoln to be loyal to the right and to all that goes to make up the man. It is the spirit that when once rooted can never die. It leads to happiness through kind deeds. Furthermore the international nature of the movement will tend for the standardizing of ideals which will eventually lead to Universal Peace.

America has in store for herself a magnificent future in her vast and abundant resources. But the success of this future will depend upon the future citizens, the youth of today. Are we going to neglect him and allow this future to be a failure? Are we going to allow him to become the prey of those depraved men and women who are always lurking in the shadows ready to pounce upon the weak and unwary? No.. Let us all unite in the furthering of the Boy Scout movement, which has for its purpose the building of character, strong enough to resist the wheedlings of temptation, the kind of character that must be possessed by our citizens in order that a great nation may enjoy future prosperity and happiness.

Therefore, I now appeal to you, for the betterment of society and for the very life of our great nation, to put your best efforts to the furthering of this wonderful movement that our great commonwealth may remain at the front in the onward march of civilization.

THE SCHOOLS MUST SAVE THE FORESTS

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19.—That the idea of forest preservation cannot become a permanent factor in our National life, unless the subject is taught in the schools, was one of the statements made by Mr. Don Carlos Ellis of the U. S. Forest Service from Washington, D. C., in an address this afternoon before the California Teachers' Association. After calling attention to the importance of the forests in furnishing material for the lumber industry, the second largest in California and for many other wood using industries which bring much wealth to the state, and to the influence which the forest exerts in regulating stream flow, lessening floods, preventing the washing of soils into reservoirs where water is stored for power development, irrigation, and domestic supply in protecting game and fishing streams and in preserving the scenic beauty of California's recreation grounds, Mr. Ellis stated that the forests in private ownership are being consumed three times as rapidly as they are growing, that thousands of dollars in timber values are in addition being destroyed by forest fires annually and that we waste twice as much timber as we use. Mr. Ellis then said in part:

"A little more than one-fourth of the area of California is in forest, an area about equal to the area under cultivation. About two-thirds of the timber in the state is contained within the National Forests where the various resources, timber, range and all the other riches are used by the public under such Government regulation as will prevent waste and misuse and will preserve the forests perpetually as sources of supply for the industries of the state.

"The work which the Government is trying to do on the National Forests has a two-fold purpose; first, the proper care, and second, the setting of a good example to private timberland owners and others in control of natural resources affecting general prosperity in order to encourage them to apply conservative methods upon their holdings. In both of these lines of effort the Government needs co-operation. There is no body of people more competent to help than the school teachers of California."

The lecturer then suggested ways in which the forest might be taught in courses of nature study and geography, without introducing a new course in the school curriculum, and invited teachers who were interested to apply to the District Forrester, 114 Sansome street, San Francisco, for appropriate school publications, maps and lantern slides.

The increase in the damand for potash has resulted in a number of inquiries of Government officials concerning the amount of this chemical contained in wood ashes which may be available at sawmills operating on the National Forests.

In 1790 Benjamin Franklin left the sum of $5,000 to the city of Boston for educational purposes, with the stipulation that the legacy should be allowed to increase through the operation of compound interest for a century before being used.

In 1894, 104 years later, the $5,000 had increased to the substantial sum of $431,000. $329,000 of this was used for the purpose of founding the Franklin Union, an institution for the promotion of industrial education.

The annual losses of livestock on the National Forest ranges of the West due to predatory animals are over $500,000. An organized campaign is now going on to exterminate these animals. Wolves are responsible for about 70 per cent of the cattle losses, while bears cause most of the remainder. Approximately 75 per cent of the sheep losses are due to coyotes, 20 per cent to bears, and 5 per cent to lynxes and wild cats. Mountain lions are charged with killing only a few head of cattle and sheep.

FAMILY REUNION

A very pleasant family reunion was held at the home of Mrs. F. P. Jackson and her son C. R. Johnstone, 219 N. Isabel street, Saturday evening, April 15. A large number of the members of the different branches of the family was present and derived much pleasure from this opportunity to recall past events and to speculate on the future in the persons of their children.

The older members of the family enjoyed themselves in many ways, and the young folk made the evening merry with songs, music and games. A delicious supper was enjoyed, and all look forward to the next reunion. Those present were: Mrs. F. P. Jackson, Mrs. C. R. Johnstone, Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Hollaway, Denver, Colo.; Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Elder, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Elder, Mr. H. M. Wheeler, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Pirie and daughter Dorothy; Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Griffith and daughter Edith, all of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Bolley and son Carlisle and mother, Mrs. J. B. Pirie of Eagle Rock; Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Hollaway of Hollywood; Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Hollaway of Montrose; Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Hollaway, son Robert and baby, of Van Nuys; Mrs. Neilson and two little daughters, Winona and Margery, and Aunt Margaret Neilson, of Lankershim; Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Pirie, Glendale.

JAPANESE FLOWER ARRANGEMENT

In Japan, the arrangement of flowers is governed by set rules. One learns how to arrange flowers as one learns to read or write. The name for this work is "Ikebana," which means "living flowers," and in itself shows the plan on which all blossoms are placed; that is, to represent the growing of natural flowers.

Mary Averill is an American woman who spent seven years in learning this art. Referring to it, she said:

"The appeal of the Japanese arrangement and choice of flowers is more to the poet than the decorator. In China for instance, color is everything, and first place is given the peony because of its blaze of tint, but the Japanese delight in and give the place of favor to the cherry. To the latter people, the flower itself is a small detail of the foliage, but so carefully is the foliage noted that the difference between the back and the front of leaves is considered.

"It was Yoshimasa, who abdicated the throne in order to devote his entire time to the fine arts, who conceived the idea that flowers offered on ceremonial occasions should not be offered loosely, but must be arranged to express the fact that the gift had had the donor's time and thought. After this notion was evolved, rules were formulated, and there are today schools of flower arrangement that are as exact as our western schools of art.

"One of the foremost of these schools teaches that all placements of blossoms should be of such a nature that three points will always be seen at a glance, and these three points are never interrupted by masses in between, nor by crossed lines.

"In March all branches are curved by careful manipulation between the fingers, and these curved branches denote the high winds that sweep out winter. In summer, low vases that expose the surface of the water are much chosen, for these express refreshment. The Japanese are most interested in always having exactly the right kind of vase for the occasion and the flowers—the kind that best displays the beauty of the blossoms and often implies a direct message to a visitor, such as a boat-shaped holder turned in a special way, thus conveying the wish for a prosperous voyage.

"In a home where a guest was making himself especially welcome and interesting, the hostess conveyed the hope that the visit might be prolonged by twisting the stems of the flowers in one way. Had the guest left after this dainty compliment, he would have committed a most unpardonable breach of etiquette.

"All gift flowers must be in the bud so that the recipient may be the one to have the joy of seeing them open. For house-warmings, white flowers are the invariable rule, never red ones.

"In placing flowers in a vase, it is usual to put the lightest shades, or white ones at the top, and uneven numbers of branches or blossoms are preferred. The surface of the water is generally exposed, and often the stems are so arranged that a space for gold fish is left. This is called "Fish highway." The rim of a bowl always represents the horizon, and it is not a rule to allow the flowers to go over the rim. All stems must be kept together; if the stems are not kept together, the arrangement is not Japanese. These stems are held in place by different sizes and kinds of lead holders that can be placed at the bottom of vases and bowls. If the holes in these are too large to allow the flower any support, small pieces of the stem can be broken off and inserted, which will tighten the space.

"One may improvise a support for the stems by means of what the Japanese call a "kubari." This is a forked stick inserted from side to side of the vase, one inch below the surface of the water. The stems can then be placed in the forked space. All stems must be four inches above the water.

"Flowers, to the Japanese, hold an important place in every-day affairs, and both men and women are supposed to understand their arrangement. In fact, it is more often considered a man's study than a woman's, though both may receive diplomas.

"It has a great advantage over the western fashion of great masses of blossoms, this far eastern plan, for just one or two leaves and perhaps three flowers, if rightly arranged, will dress and adorn a whole room and so the numbers of blooms pressed into service for one vase may be ample, in the Japanese way, to decorate an entire house."

CHROMIC IRON ORE

Chromium is a metal which when alloyed with steel gives to it hardness and toughness that makes it useful in the manufacture of automobile steels, armor plate, armor-piercing projectiles, the shoes and dies of stamp mills, and tires for rolls used in crushing ores; tool steels and in other steels to which it is desired to give hardness and toughness.

The huge orders placed in this country for war materials have not only resulted in a great demand for chromium steels to be used directly for purposes of war but have led to the increased manufacture of special steels for cutting shells, rifle barrels, and other instruments of war, and are reflected in increased metal mining and greater consequent use of chromium steels for crushing machinery.

Practically the only mineral used as a source of chromium is chromic iron ore, known as chromite. Chromite is largely imported, but importations have been much interrupted by the war, and as a result the production of chromic iron in the United States was last year greatly increased. Unfortunately for the consumers, nearly all of whom are east of the Mississippi, the production in the United States is wholly in California and to reach the greater market it has to be transported across the Rocky Mountains and Great Plains. At the end of the long haul, under ordinary conditions, it must compete with imported ore. However, there has been a sufficient decrease in freight rates to encourage production and this with the irregularity of imports greatly encouraged the mining of the California ore in 1915.

According to J. S. Diller, of the United States Geological Survey, whose report is now in press, the chromic iron ore marketed in 1915 amounted to 3,281 long tons, valued at $36,744. In 1914 only 591 long tons, valued at $8,715, was sold.

RADIUM NEVER SEEN IN NATURE

Radium is a metal and is described as having a white metallic luster. It has been isolated only once or twice and few people have seen it. Radium is ordinarily obtained from its ores in the form of hydrous sulphate, chloride, or bromide, and it is in the form of these salts that it is usually sold and used. These are all white or nearly white substances, whose appearance is no more remarkable than common salt or baking powder. Radium is found in nature in such exceedingly small quantities that it is never visible even when the material is examined with a microscope. Ordinarily radium ore carries only a small fraction of a grain per ton of material and radium will never be found in large quantity because it is formed by the decay of uranium, a process which is wonderfully slow, and radium itself decays and changes to other elements so rapidly that it is impossible for it to accumulate naturally in visible masses. Minerals that carry radium, however, are fairly easy to determine. One of them, pitchblende, as generally found, is a black mineral about as heavy as ordinary iron, but much softer. The principal radium mineral, carnotite, has a bright canary-yellow color, and is generally powdery. There are other radium-bearing minerals of less importance.

GLENDALE CITY UNION

Under the auspices of the Glendale branch of the W. C. T. U., a mothers' meeting will be held, Friday afternoon, April 21, at the home of Mrs. A. M. Brooks, 211 S. Jackson street. The meeting begins promptly at 2 o'clock, with prayer service led by Mrs. H. E. Loveless. Mrs. H. E. Harrell has charge of the program. All members are desired to give a one-minute talk on the subject, "How my mother taught me temperance." Friends of the temperance movement and of the society and all mothers are specially invited.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to expressed our deepest gratitude and thanks to all those who in any way assisted in the recent illness and demise of our dear mother and grandmother.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Lee and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. M. Lee and family.

Miss Genevieve L. Gannaway.

COMMERCIAL SIDE OF WAR

Ultimately wars are for commerce. They may be apparently started for some reason that is given to the world but the usual provocation of modern wars at least is commercial rivalry. The present war in Europe does not differ in that respect from many other wars of modern times. In its practical outcome it is commercial and the prize of the conqueror is the markets of the world. Already Germany and the central powers are creating the machinery by which they hope to save themselves from commercial extinction.

Great Britain and her allies are also recognizing that they have to fight another strenuous battle for the markets of the world. They are preparing to do so by strengthening the barriers of protective tariffs against goods "made in Germany." Britain is recognizing for the first time in many long years that commerce is the most necessary branch of activity in building up the State. When the war comes to an end the settlement will have a great deal to do with the commercial relations of the nations now at war.

It can easily be realized that for a long time none of the Allies will feel like purchasing German goods and that country which built up the money it has now squandered on the war from selling to the very nations it is striving to destroy will suffer. German economists are realising that they have destroyed their best markets. Besides this the British public and the public of the British dominions are so deeply stirred against Germany that the greater proportion of that people will never again wittingly buy a German-made article.

Again it is freely stated by leading British economists that Britain will adopt a protective tariff, taking the matter out of politics. This is a regular "volte face" for Britain. Before the war the protection issue was practically dead. Now new industries are springing up all over the country and over the colonies and independent dominions of the British empire and it is more than likely that they will be protected, for a time at least, from lower-priced continental labor.

The United States could manufacture for the European market but has not far a year and a half shown any great desire to do so. The United States has not yet learned the science of export business. Great Britain hopes to make herself a greater export nation than she was before the war. Much of the old "laissez-faire" (let well-enough alone,) spirit has died out and Britons will again be strenuous competitors in every field of international commerce.

GLENDALE'S COMING FLOWER SHOW

Glendale will have its first Free Flower Show Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week. The show is under the management of a committee and officials appointed by the Glendale Garden society, of which Mrs. Nanno Woods is president. Mrs. Woods has been instrumental in getting together the people and instilling into them the enthusiasm necessary for the conduct of this interesting and valuable enterprise.

There is much interest displayed in the show in all quarters of the city. The success of the affair is now a matter of certainty and the genius for arrangement that some people possess naturally is slowly and inevitably putting everything in its proper place. When the show opens on Thursday it will bring together a great many of Glendale's citizens who might otherwise have sat down supinely content with old ways and antiquated customs.

That Glendale should come to the front with a free flower show, the first of its kind in this part of the State, is a credit to the city. There seems little doubt that the exhibits will equal in number and extent as well as in variety and rarity any show that has been held in this part of the country and will in reality surpass most of them.

The great value of such a show lies in the stimulation it gives to individuals to compete with others in flower production and also in the production of all manner of garden produce. The blessing of God was invoked on the man who made one blade of grass to grow where two grew before and in like manner those who are encouraging the cultivation of gardens and of the back lot are doing humanity vast service. It is perfectly safe to say that where the warrior who devastates nations and tramples their products under foot will be remembered only in the curses of the world a man like Luther Burbank will be blessed to all generations.

In like manner there is more good accomplished by the intelligent and disinterested work of the leaders of the Flower Show movement than by all the would-be wiseacres who mouth empty criticism at the progress and improvement of the community. Deeds speak more loudly than words, and the leaders of this Garden society will reap a desirable reward in the benefits they confer on the city.

Experiments in trusting criminals may be all right within certain limitations. Up to the present time, however, they have usually been lamentable failures. This is probably because they have been attempted without sufficient knowledge of the possibilities of the experiment and without favorable condition for the experimentation. Readers of literature will remember Midshipman Easy's father's machine for developing the good bumps of criminals' heads and depressing the bad ones and the sad sequel to the experiment when the criminals hanged the foolish old man in his own cranial machine and decamped after robbing the house. Experiments in the United States on the trust system with criminals have had some sad setbacks of late. The public will recollect the fate of the system at Sing Sing prison, the experiments in Arizona and more recently the cruel murder of Mrs. Odette Allen, wife of former Warden E. M. Allen of Joliet penitentiary. Mrs. Allen was a victim of the "honor" system and was murdered by "Chicken Joe" Campbell, who fractured the unfortunate woman's skull with a bludgeon and then burned the body. Campbell was a murderer and was a trusted servant in the warden's house. The "honor" system may be carried to ridiculous lengths, it would seem.

---

Time has gone on and there is yet no proof that Villa is dead. Of course it may be that he may be declared dead. It is also possible that someone may be found to identify his body; but if Villa keeps on insisting that he is not dead it may be reasoned with some show of plausibility that he is the best judge of that question. One thing is apparent, those who were so eager to send troops into Mexico are just as eager to get them out on some plausible excuse. The troops, brave and skilful as any troops can be, are a mere handful in a vast desert country, traversed by difficult mountain passes affording unequaled places for ambush to the hostile natives. The Americans are tied to their base and have not even sufficient transportation to permit of their getting away after the elusive Mexican bandit they have been sent to hunt. It is a disgrace to subject troops to such conditions. It will also afford the Mexicans great satisfaction if circumstances shoudl compel the president to recall the troops that he sent out. Mexico is as likely to misinterpret such action as it already has misinterpreted the inaction of the United States.

VON IGEL STILL HELD UNDER ARREST

GERMAN AMBASSADOR'S REQUEST THAT CONSPIRATOR BE RELEASED NOT COMPLIED WITH

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

NEW YORK, April 19.—Much new information regarding the bomb plots in which Von Igel, secretary to Captain Von Papen, the German military attache who was expelled from the United States, is implicated, was uncovered yesterday. It is stated that it further implicates Von Igel and Von Papen. If Von Igel's activities were committed before he became attached to the German embassy staff he will be held to answer for them.

DEMANDS CESSATION OF SUBMARINE ACTS

PRESIDENT'S NOTE TO GERMANY THREATENS SEVERANCE OF DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 19.—President Wilson served notice on Germany today that it must stop submarining unarmed merchantmen at once or diplomatic relations between the two nations would be severad. The message has been cabled to Germany and the answer is awaited with interest.

CAMPS FOR CIVILIANS

WESTERN DEPARTMENT OF U. S. ARMY TELLS OF TRAINING SYSTEM

Under the direction of the Western Department of the United States army a bulletin has been issued informing those interested of the regulations governing the attendance at the Camps of Instruction for business and professional men. The purpose of this movement is to help properly qualified men to fill the great deficiency in officers and non-commissioned officers that would immediately arise in case of national emergency, by giving them four weeks of intensive military instruction in the field under regular officers, and with troops of the regular army.

This movement will also foster a patriotic spirit and spread among the citizens of the country some knowledge of military history, military policy and military needs. Four weeks of healthy outdoor life is likely to teach habits of obedience, discipline, command and self-control that are prerequisites of efficiency in every business or profession, and to send the men back from the camps better prepared to take care of themselves and of others.

Applicants must be citizens of the United States, of sound physical condition, capable of the severe physical work of drill and maneuvers with full infantry equpiment; eyesight normal or corrected by glasses; at least 18 years of age and under 60; students in public or private schools who have reached a grave equivalent to senior class, high school or graduates thereof; undergraduates or graduates of colleges or universities; other citizens not included in the above who have the equivalent of a college education—that is a good elementary education, which has been supplemented by business or professional training. Qualifications must invariably be stated on an application blank.

The camps will be held at American Lake, Washington; Fort Douglas, Utah; Monterey, California. Camps may be held in other localities provided conditions permit and warrant them. The periods of the camps are as follows:

Monterey, Cal., July 10-Aug. 5.
American Lake, Wash., Aug. 14-Sept. 9.
Fort Douglas, Utah, Aug. 21-Sept. 16.

GENERAL SCOTT TO SEE FUNSTON

UNITED STATES CHIEF OF STAFF LEAVES CAPITOL FOR THE MEXICAN BORDER

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 19.—Gen. Hugh Scott dines with President Wilson this evening and will take leave of the president before starting off for a journey to the Mexican border, where he wlil confer with Gen. Funston on the conditions confronting the American troops in Mexico. Scott is believed to favor the withdrawal of the troops provided it can be ascertained that United States prestige is not to suffer. The chief of staff had a long experience in Mexico himself and was acquainted with Villa. He believes in avoiding war.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Zadock Harry Jarman were guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Robbins, of Lomita avenue, Saturday evening.

Mr. Edgar Baxter, and his daughter Mrs. Elizabeth Brown, were dinner guests at the home of the Rev Dr. and Mrs. Mills, Tuesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Ragland recently of San Diego, but now of Los Angeles, were visitors at tht home of W. B. Kirk, 718 West Broadway, Tuesday. Mr. Ragland is a brother of Mrs. Kirk.

Mr. and Mrs. William Robbins of 911 Lomita avenue, entertained with a dinner Friday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dofflemeyer, of Tulare, Cal., who were guests of Glendale friends over the week end.

Mr. T. H. Rosenberger, 147 S. Brand Boulevard, leaves tomorrow for his mining property on the Mojave desert. The mine, which is in the Searles lake district, is producing regularly its usual valuable output.

Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Lauler, 1427 Burchett street, are entertaining Dr. Lauler's sister, Mrs. Gertrude Osenberg of Elsinore, this week. The Laulers and Mrs. Osenberg are guests today at dinner at the home of Mrs. W. P. Coffman, of Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Preston of 725 Adams street, with Miss Jeannette McLennon, Miss Beth Smith and Master Shirley Preston, motored to Redondo Tuesday, where they spent a most delightful day at the seashore.

Mrs. Flora Pixley of 509 Columbus avenue left for her cottage at Hermosa Beach this morning. Mrs. Pixley was accompanied by Mrs. Caroline Adams, of Pacific avenue, who will remain at the beach as the guest of Mrs. Pixley, for an indefinite visit.

Miss Edna Learned, entertained the girls of the J. O. C. class of the First Methodist Episcopal church at her home, 137 S. Maryland street, Tuesday night. The occasion was the semi-monthly meeting of the class. The rooms were decorated in Easter style.

Mrs. S. H. Goldstein, 717 W. Fifth street, who has been quite ill since the death of her husband who was killed in a runaway accident near Bakersfield some time ago, is getting better. She is attended by her sister and it is expected that her mother will move from San Francisco to Glendale so that the whole family will be together.

GLENDALE FOOTHILLS

In the midst of a setting of lovely roses for which Casa Verdugo is famous, a large and happy party was entertained at dinner Sunday by Bob Levy of Los Angeles, son of Mr. Levy of the famous Levy's Cafe. This were charmed with the embowered growing in wonderful profusion and the numerous guests from the cicty and the various parties of strangers who patronized the place on Sunday were charmed with the embowered setting of their tables. So wonderful are these roses that Mr. and Mrs. Sowle are to enter three varieties in competition at the Free Flower Show this week.

The famous De Nubila orchestra of Los Angeles added to the other charms of Casa Verdugo cafe on Sunday by discoursing most eloquent music throughout the day to the great enjoyment of the guests.

Mr. Yorba, son of Mrs. Sowle, of Casa Verdugo, who recently broke two bones in his wrist while cranking his Chevrolet car, is getting along as well as could be expected, but as the breaks are close to the joint the healing process is going to take a considerable time. With careful massage it is hoped that the flexibility of the hand will not be lost.

On account of this being Holy week, the meeting of the Foothill club has been postponed until Friday of next week, at which time it will be held at the home of Mrs. Charles Ritcher, Mountain street.

Julius Kranz and family, of 1317 North Brand Boulevard are spending Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week at Hermosa Beach.

Dr. J. E. Eckles is spending the week in a camping trip in the mountains beyond Azusa. The doctor is accompanied by Mr. Lord, Mr. C. A. Sharp and Dr. Whitcomb of Monrovia. The party will return by the end of the week.

J. D. BURKS WILL SPEAK

J. D. Burks, efficiency director of the City of Los Angeles, will speak in the City Hall in Glendale Thursday evening, April 20, at 7:30 o'clock, under the auspices of the Freeholders Charter Committee, of which Frederick Baker is chairman, and F. L. Muhleman, secretary. The public is invited.

MISSIONARY MEETING

The Woman's Missionary Society of the First Congregational church will meet at the home of Mrs. C. M. Van Dyke, 1430 W. Third street, on Thursday afternoon at half past two. A large attendance is desired.

WHY GARDEN SOCIETY?

MEMBERS WHO ARE NATURE LOVERS HAVE VISION OF PAST AND OF FUTURE

Mrs. Ella Richardson, who has very extensive, beautiful and handsomely arranged grounds at her Central avenue home and who is one of the most enthusiastic members and hardest workers in the Glendale Garden Society, when asked, "Why the Glendale Garden Society?" said, "There is much speculation as to why flowers ever came into the world. They are joyful things and each and every one has its place in the kingdom. To know a flower well and to grow it well is to love it.

"Linneaus once said of the unfolding of a blosso n, 'I saw God in his glory passing near me and bowed my head in worship.' Rev. Mary Baker Eddy says, Page 179 Miscellaneous Writings, 'These flowers are floral apostles. God does all this through his followers and He made every flower in Mind before it sprang from the earth.' The scientific aspect of the same thought has been put into words by Tennyson.

'Flower in the crannied wall
I hold you here root and all in my hand.
Little flower—but if I could understand
What you are root and all, and all in all
I would know what God and man is.'

"Why the Garden Society in Glendale, the City Beautiful? Because there is eternal unfoldment and room to improve and the members of this society are a band of people who really love nature, love to tramp the fields and mountains, to breath the fresh, clear air, to smell the sweet fragrance of the woods, to see the clouds and the stars, to watch the ways of the wild things that live from the tree top to the deepest burrow underground. These nature lovers calling themselves the Glendale Garden Society have memories of the paths they have frequented in their childhqod, the wild flowers by the wayside, the streams where they drank from their hands, the berry patch, the grape vine swing, the nut trees visited in the fall, the first arbutus or hepatica or bloodroot or March marigold or skunk cabbage or whatever flower it was that ushered in their spring. 'Memory'll keep them bright forever.'

"The Glendale Garden Society members know that good is contagious and they also know that where the soil is men grow either flowers or weeds. They encourage the useful and ornamental. Much is being written every day upon the advisability of reducing the cost of living. In no way can it be better accomplished than by clearing up the waste places and planting them with vegetables. The back yard of a city residence can be transformed into a productive source of supply for the family.

"The members of the Glendale Garden Society are ever ready to lend a hand and a committee of its members have under them ninety-seven children of the Pacific Avenu school in a garden contest for the best arranged back yard. This teaches patriotism. There is no end to our story and no end to our unfolding in good.

ENTERTAIN QUEEN ESTHER CIRCLE

The Woman's Home Missionary society of the First Methodist Episcopal church held a very pleasant meeting Tuesday evening in the church for the purpose of entertaining the young ladies of the Queen Esther circle. A very enjoyable banquet was given in the church parlors. Mrs. Dugger of Pasadena, district secretary of the Young People's association of the district, was present and gave a most interesting address on the work of that body. Mrs. Sisson of Pasadena, who has traveled a great deal in coonnection with the work of the Home Missionary society, then gave a deeply instructive lecture with stereoptican views. She showed pictures of the immigrant work at Ellis Island and of the work among the foreigners in the slums. Then she took her audience in picture and story across the continent to San Francisco and thence to Hawaii, Japan and across the Atlantic to Palestine. The audience enjoyed the scenes immensely. There was a large attendance.

MRS. LINDSAY TO CONTINUE BUSINESS

Mrs. Andrew Lindsay wishes to express to her many friends and patrons her heartfelt gratitude for their kindness to her at the time of the death of her husband, and for their past patronage. She wishes to announce that she will continue the business at 568 West Broadway and will appreciate and endeavor to merit the continued patronage of all.

Henry Jackson Waters tells of a young man soliciting for a benevolent institution who asked an old Eagle-choker for a collection for the Lord. Collecting for the Lord? Well, young man how old are you?" "I am 25." "Well, I am 75 years old—and as you are only 25 I will see the Lord sooner than you, and I'll hand it to him myself!"

Breaking ice with your fist is easy compared to being good friends following a romantic courtship!

TROPICO

Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Halloway and Mrs. Edith Washburn of Denver, Colorado, have been guests, recently, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Millard Turck of 521 N. Glendale avenue.

Mrs. W. A. Dutton entertained with a luncheon, replete in all of its appointments, at her home, 519 Virginia Place, Tuesday, complimenting Mrs. Ray D. McCollum, Mrs. August Dee, wife of Capt. Dee of the National Guards of California, and Miss Elizabeth McCollum of Los Angeles. A low cut bowl of Cecil Brunner rosebuds and ferns centered the table, at which Mrs. Dutton, assisted by her daughter, Miss Eva May Dutton, dispensed gracious hospitality to the guests of honor, Mrs. McCollum, Mrs. Dee, Miss Elizabeth McCollum, Mrs. Ruth Van Court and Miss Doris Van Court.

After a delightful visit of several days in San Diego, Mrs. J. W. Dalrymple has returned to her home at 537 North Central avenue.

Among the many Stanford men and their wives who attended the banquet tendered Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Stanford, was Prof. Earl T. Dutton. The banquet was a most happy reunion of the Stanford alumni and was given in the banquet hall of the Broadway Department store. The occasion also afforded an opportunity for these Stanford men to jollify as the news was received that the Stanford teams had won not only in the track meets, but in the baseball game played with the Californias that afternoon.

Of more than passing interest will be the news of the recent illness of Mr. George Hall Damon, formerly of Tropico. Mr. and Mrs. Damon were former residents of Tropico, having resided at 537 North Central avenue. Some time since Mr. Damon was appointed leading character in the film play, the "Argonauts," and in company with Mrs. Damon left for Monrovia, the scene of many of the pictures of the photoplay. Mr. Damon, who is slowly recovering, was taken suddenly ill following the last scenes of the "Argonauts."

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Patterson, instructor in the Los Angeles schools, and his mother, Mrs. Nina Richards, of 306 Paloma avenue, left for San Diego Monday morning, where they will spend a week visiting friends and attending the exposition.

Prof. Earl T. Dutton, physical director of the Franklin High School, is spending his Easter vacation at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Dutton, of 519 Virginia Place.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Davis of Altadena motored over to Tropico Tuesday and were the guests of Mrs. Frank I. Marsh of 113 North Central avenue.

Glenn Wilson, formerly of Tropico, arrived from his home in Maupville and is the guest of his aunts, Miss Ellen Sharp and Miss Amaretta Sharp of West Cypress. Mr. Wilson will be joined later by Mrs. Wilson and their son.

Earl T. Dutton entertained with a 500 card party at his home, on Virginia Place, Tuesday, complimentary to Mr. Harold Ross of Los Angeles, who is stopping temporarily at the home of Mr. Charles Patterson on Paloma avenue.

Mrs. Mary Chadwick and daughter, Miss Florence Chadwick, who but recently returned from an extended visit in their former home, Walnut, Kansas, were the recipients of many delightful social functions. Upon the eve of their departure for their California home Mrs. Chadwick and daughter entertained with a farewell luncheon, and the Walnut Eagle contains the following account: "Mrs. Mary Chadwick and Miss Florence Chadwick gave a one o'clock luncheon, Wednesday, at the Motter hotel, in courtesy to those ladies who had entertained them. A most delicious three-course luncheon was served. The place cards were beautiful scenes from California. Mrs. Chadwick made a short talk and thanked the ladies for the pleasant times and hospitality that had been shown them. Mrs. Guy Carlton spoke of the pleasure it had been to entertain them and thanked them for the lovely way in which they returned that hospitality. Mrs. Chadwick and Miss Chadwick are charming hostesses. Every one had a delightful time and spent a most enjoyable afternoon.

"Mrs. Chadwick and daughter have been visiting relatives and friends here for several months and anticipate returning to their home in Tropico, Calif., soon. About eight years ago they moved to California. They have a large number of friends here who were glad to welcome them back to Walnut and they all hope they will have such pleasant memories of this visit that they will come again soon. Those entertained included Mrs. D. B. Gregory, Mrs. Sophia Locke, Mrs. Lou Coverdale, Mrs. Lizzie Combs, Mrs. James Eaton, Mrs. I. E. Clark, Mrs. William Welty, Mrs. Guy Carlton, Miss Florence Goff, Mrs. L. A. Noland, Miss Gladys Noland, Mrs. L. Sigler, Mrs. Martha Martin, Mrs. Arthur Martin, Mrs. Mary Goff, Mrs. A. L. Worley, Mrs. A. Bever, Mrs. Everett May, Mrs. Mary Creagor, Mrs. Edith Bingham, Mrs. S. K. Plum, Mrs. William Ferg, all of Walnut, and Mrs. Josie Stauffer Lewis of Parsons, Kansas."

ST. MARK'S EPISCOPAL CHURCH

On Good Friday, April 21, there will be morning prayer and Litany at 9:30 a. m. And the three-hours service from 12 to 3 p. m., to which everybody is urged to attend. On Easter Day there will be a celebration of the Holy Communion at 7:30 and 11 a. m. The church will be beautifully decorated for the day and special music by the robed and excellent choir. Dr. Mills will preach on the "Meaning of the Resurrection." In the evening at 7:30 the Sunday school will hold an Easter service in the church.

EASTER SERVICES

Marked interest was manifested last evening at the first of the Easter week services which are being held at the Congregational church. The speaker, the Rev. J. H. Lash, gave a most helpful and deeply spiritual sermon. The speaker took for a text "Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God." (Matt 4-4.) In part the preacher said. "Jesus was much interested in life, much more so than in religion. To make a life means more than being meerly religious. Religion to many is a straight-jacket. It should be a life."

"A mere mechanical knowledge of the Bible is of little import. We must get its spirit and purpose into our lives. The heart must be set on things of supreme value.

"Some jobs keep people so busy that they have no time to live. Brains may be full but the heart is often empty."

This evening Rev. A. B. Strong, assistant to Dr. Fox, of Pasadena, will speak. Mr. Strong was until recently a pastor at Seattle.

Love for dress may make a mess!

The waste product of sawmills in the United States including that fed to the furnaces as fuel is estimated to be 36,000,000 cords per year, and the equivalent of 2,880,000,000 cubic feet of solid wood substance. About half of it has no use whatever but is usually burned to get rid of it.

FLOWER SHOW NOTES

Mr. Paul Hurst, well known in Glendale for his efficient work in connection with advertising and getting publicity for the Glendale Athletic club and Basketball team, is doing equally efficient work in connection with the Flower Show. Mr. Hurst, who is as good a mechanic as he is a moving picture actor, busied himself all day Tuesday and Wednesday, assisting in the clothing of walls and posts in the large tent with the abundance of greenery that has been sent in in abundance. Mr. Hurst's services have been placed freely at the command of the Show.

Mr. James H. Woods, of Milford street, has also been busy trimming the marquee and assisting in the thousand and one things that are calling to be done.

The large and handsome white pergola and the front entrance adds grace and dignity to the show and is also testimony to the excellent productions of the Matthew Garden Craft company of Pasadena. Other pieces of similar garden furniture testify to the good taste of the firm.

THE WHIP-POOR-WILL'S HOUR

The cool sweet air,
The dark fern-scented woods,
The breath of oak and pine,
The fire-flies in the grass,
The chirp of sleepy crickets,
The song of the thrush,
A lullaby of streams,
The unutterable coolness and sweetness—
The odor of apple blooms and grass—
Then from the fragrant dusk of pines
The whip-poor-will puts forth his slender cry. —Hamlin Garland.

The chestnut blight has already done damage estimated as close to $50,000,000. The disease attacks both American and European species but does little damage to those from Japan and China. Plant breeders by crossing Japanese chestnut and native chinquapin have produced resistant trees. Some of the Chinese chestnuts are said to grow 100 feet high in their home forests.

August—Date to be fixed later—Annual Mid-Summer Outing.

NOTE—Flower Giving Day. On Saturday morning, April 29, the President, Mrs. Nanno Woods, will leave Glendale at 10 o'clock in an automobile filled with flowers,—common garden flowers of bright colors and staying qualities, such as long stemmed geraniums, cosmos, petunias, gypsophila, mignonette, marigolds, nasturtiams, stocks, sweet peas, and wild flowers such as lupines and sunflowers,—all tied into convenient bunches. She will drive to La Plaza, Los Angeles, and will there distribute from the automobile these bunches of sweet flowers to the less fortunate residents of the city, who rarely ever see a flower. Mrs. Woods invites all owners of automobiles to join this flower-giving trip. She asks the residents of Glendale to cut suitable flowers from their gardens and to tie them in attractive bunches. Also school children are asked to do likewise, and to gather wild flowers early on Saturday morning. Automobile owners should collect these flowers from their neighbors and friends, and be in readiness to start from Brand and Broadway at 10 o'clock sharp. Not alone members of the Garden Society, but all Glendale folks are invited to join this trip. Let there be a grand procession of Glendale autos filled with Glendale flowers, flying Glendale pennants. Let thousands of Glendale flowers be given in this way to hundreds of Los Angeles' city poor.

TRUSTEES' MEETING

Official Proceedings

The Board of Trustees met in regular session at the city hall at 7:30 p. m., April 17, 1916. All members present at roll call. The minutes of the last regular meeting were read and approved.

Canvass of Returns of Municipal Election

On motion of Trustee Thompson, it was ordered that the returns of the municipal election of April 10, 1916, be now canvassed. The chairman appointed Trustee Thompson and Trustee Tower as Clerks and Trustee Williams and Trustee Grist as Tellers, for the purpose of canvassing the votes.

An informal recess was taken during the count of the ballots, after which the Tellers brought in their report, the substance of which is embodied in the following resolution, presented by Trustee Grist and adopted.

RESOLUTION NUMBER 898

A Resolution Declaring Result of the Regular Municipal Election Held April 10, 1916

WHEREAS, a general municipal election was held in the City of Glendale, State of California, on Monday, the tenth day of April, 1916, for the purpose of electing a clerk and ex-officio assessor; a treasurer; and three members of the Board of Trustees, and of voting upon certain propositions, towit: First, the annexation of Remington Street; Second, the annexation of Pumping Plant District; Third, the proposition of reorganizing Glendale as a fifth class city.

AND WHEREAS, it appears that said election was held and conducted in accordance with the general election laws of the state, so far as the same were applicable; and that the Board of Trustees gave such notice of election as prescribed by ordinance, and appointed Boards of Election, fixed their compensation and established election precincts and polling places; and that said election was held and conducted and the votes cast thereat were received and canvassed, and returns thereon made in time, form and manner as required by law.

AND WHEREAS, the Board of Trustees did meet on this, the seventeenth day of April, 1916, being the Monday next succeeding the date of said general municipal election, for the purpose of canvassing the vote cast thereat, whereupon it was found that the vote cast at said election in the respective precincts established therefor was as follows:

AND WHEREAS, it appears from a canvass of the votes cast at said general municipal election, that the persons next herein named received a plurality of all the votes cast thereat for the respective offices mentioned, now therefore

IT IS HEREBY RESOLVED, Determined and declared by the Board of Trustees of the City of Glendale, that at the general municipal election held in said city on Monday, the tenth day of April, 1916, the persons elected to the respective offices for the terms stated and until their successors are duly elected and qualified, are as follows:

R. M. Jackson as trustee for the period of four years.

Frank L. Muhleman as trustee for the period of four years.

G. B. Woodberry as trustee for the period of four years.

J. C. Sherer as clerk and ex-officio assessor for the period of two years.

G. B. Hoffman as treasurer, for the period of two years.

That at said election a majority of the voters voted in favor of the annexation of the territory designated on the ballot as Remington Street Annexation District, which district is particularly described in the resolution calling said election and giving notice thereof.

Number of votes for annexation, 1337.

Number of votes against Annexation, 707.

Total number of votes cast on said proposition, 2044.

That at said election a majority of the voters voted in favor of the annexation of the territory designated on the ballot as Pumping Plant District, which district is particularly described in the resolution calling said election and giving notice thereof.

Number of votes for Annexation, 1332.

Number of votes against Annexation, 729.

Total number of votes cast on said proposition, 2061.

That at said election a majority of the voters voted against the reorganization of the City of Glendale as a Fifth Class City.

The clerk and treasurer, respectively, before entering upon the duties of their respective offices, shall execute a bond to the City of Glendale in such sum as required by ordinance, which bond shall be approved by the Board of Trustees and filed with the clerk; the bond of the clerk shall be filed with the president of the Board. All newly elected officers before entering upon the duties of the office to which they have been elected, shall take and subscribe to the constitutional oath of office, and file the same with the clerk.

(Signed) J. S. THOMPSON,
Chairman of the Board of Trustees.
Attest: J. C. SHERER,
City Clerk of the City of Glendale.

I hereby certify that the foregoing resolution was adopted at a meeting of the Board of Trustees of the City of Clendale, Monday, April 17, 1916, by the following vote:

AYES—Grist, Jackson, Muhleman, Thompson, Woodberry.

NOES—None.

ABSENT—None.

Dated, April 17, 1916.

(Signed) J. C. SHERER,
City Clerk of the City of Glendale.

Address by Chairman Lane and Others

At this point, Chairman Lane, one of the retiring members of the Board of Trustees, made an appropriate address greeting the newly elected officials and welcoming to the city those citizens of North Glendale whose territory became a part of the City of Glendale upon the adoption of the annexation propositions at the election of April 10th.

Mr. Brown, a resident of the Remington Street District, replied to the Chairman's remarks, expressing the appreciation of the people of his section of the fact that they are a part of the City of Glendale.

Mr. W. E. Hewitt, manager of the Glendale Laundry, also spoke along the same lines, expressing his belief that the sections annexed would gain greatly by the annexation.

Newly Elected Members

The Clerk of the Board then administered the oath of office to the following newly elected members of the Board of Trustees:

R. M. Jackson, Frank L. Muhleman, and G. B. Woodberry.

Also to the re-elected Treasurer, G. B. Hoffman.

Re Chairman of the Board

The Clerk of the Board then called the new Board of Trustees to order and asked for nominations for Chairman of the Board. On motion of Trustee Jackson, Trustee J. S. Thompson was nominated as Chairman of the Board of Trustees. The nomination was duly seconded, and their being no further nominations, Trustee Thompson was declared to be the unanimous choice of the Board for Chairman of the Board of Trustees for the ensuing term.

Address from Newly Elected Chairman

The newly elected Chairman addressed the Board briefly, expressing his gratification as having had the privilege of serving on the Board with the members whose terms had expired on this date and expressing the belief that his relations with the newly organized Board would be equally pleasant.

Re City Clerk

The Chairman of the Board then administered the oath of office to the re-elected Clerk, J. C. Sherer.

Resolution

Trustee Grist offered the following resolution, which upon motion, was duly adopted and ordered to be spread upon the minutes.

WHEREAS, at the meeting of the Board of Trustees of the City of Glendale, on this the 17th day of April, 1916, the terms of office of Trustees Lane, Tower and Williams expire, Trustee Lane having served as a member of the Board two terms, Trustee Tower, one term, and Trustee Williams having been appointed to fill out the unexpired term of former Trustee Watson, who resigned. During the terms of office of the aforementioned trustees, the City of Glendale has experienced an epoch of great prosperity and civic development. The boundaries of our city have been extended, new territory taken in and the city greatly enlarged, a great many of our most important residential and business streets have been permanently improved and ornamentally lighted, our lighting system has grown and developed in usefulness and efficiency more than twofold, a municipal water system has been acquired, and improved, and the cost of service for both water and light has been reduced practically fifty per cent.

In effecting these and many other valuable improvements, these retiring officials have courageously and consistently stood for what they considered to be their duty and for what they thought best represented the interests of the pople of our city in general.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IS RESOLVED BY THIS BOARD, among whom are the successors in office of the three officials who have just retired, that we hereby express our appreciation to the said retiring members of the faithful and efficient manner in which they have discharged their official duties, and that we thus commend them to the people of the City of Glendale and their constituency as having courageously and fearlessly performed and discharged the duties of the public trust to which they were committed; that a copy of this resolution be spread of record on the minute books of this Board, and that a copy thereof be sent to each of said retiring officials.

Adopted this 17th day of April, 1916.

(Signed) J. S. THOMPSON,
Chairman of the Board of Trustees.
Attest: (Signed) J. C. SHERER,
City Clerk.

Address by Mr. Tower and Others

Mr. Tower addressed the Board of Trustees in a facetious way and read informal resolutions consisting particularly of advice to the newly elected members.

Trustee Woodberry was called upon and expressed on behalf of the newly elected Trustees, their appreciation of the honor conferred upon them by the vote of the citizens.

Mr. Wilmot Parcher, the Chairman of the first Board of Trustees of the City of Glendale, addressed the Board congratulating the members, both old and new, upon the splendid records of growth and development which had been made by the city during the past few years.

Statement from Manager Public Service Department

In answer to a query by Mr. Wright of the newly annexed territory, the Manager of the Public Service Department presented a written statement as to the work being planned for the better accommodation of that territory in regard to light and water.

Committees Appointed

The Chairman of the Board appointed the following committees:

Public Works Committee—Trustees Woodberry and Grist.

Public Welfare Committee—Trustees Muhleman and Jackson.

Finance Committee — Trustees Grist, Jackson and Woodberry.

Supply Committee—Trustees Jackson and Muhleman.

Re Compensation of Election Officers

The Chairman of the Board brought up the matter of compensation of the election officers at the recent city election, and after some discussion, a motion made by Trustee Woodberry was adopted fixing the compensation of election officers at $7.00 for their services rendered at the election of April 10th.

Demands

Demands as follows were referred to the Finance Committee and allowed:

Communication from City Engineer

A communication was read from the City Engineer in regard to the work of the Pacific Electric Railway Company on Brand Boulevard at First and Doran Streets, giving copies of correspondence between the Pacific Electric officials and himself in regard to the same. On motion of Trustee Grist, the communication was ordered to be placed on file.

In answer to an inquiry by Trustee Woodberry, the engineer stated that he had furnished the Pacific Electric officials with copies of grade ordinance and other data on Brand boulevard and the intersecting streets, and furthermore, that the company's engineer had admitted being aware of that obligation to comply with the official grades and regulations of the City of Glendale in the matter of crossings, but wished the matter to be deferred as long as possible.

Resolution Number 899

The City Attorney presented a resolution covering the matter, which upon motion of Trustee Grist was ordered to be read.

On motion, Resolution Number 899, "A Resolution of the Board of Trustees of the City of Glendale prescribing the terms and conditions under which the Pacific Electric Railway Company may proceed to improve certain portions of First Street and Doran Street, and notifying said Pacific Electric Railway Company of the intention of the Board of Trustees to require said improvements to be made accordingly," was taken up for reading.

On motion of Trustee Muhleman, the same upon being read was adopted by the following vote:

AYES—Grist, Jackson, Muhleman, Thompson, Woodberry.

NOES—None.

Application for Permit to Run Auto Bus

An application was read from L. O. Hood for permit to run an auto bus. The same was referred to the city manager.

Adjourned Meeting

A motion was made by Trustee Muhleman that when the Board adjourn, it be to meet at 3 o'clock p. m., Wednesday, April 19th, next.

Warrants

Demands previously referred to the Finance committee were reported favorably by said committee and warrants ordered to be drawn in payment of the same, by the following vote:

AYES—Grist, Jackson, Muhleman, Thompson,, Woodberry.

NOES—None.

Communication from City Attorney

The city attorney presented a letter calling attention to the fact that Brand Boulevard since the lowering of the tracks of the Pacific Electric Railway company, is now a single roadway, and the traffic should be regulated accordingly. On motion of Trustee Muhleman, signs were ordered to be posted on Brand boulevard where necessary for the purpose of directing traffic to keep on the right hand side of the boulevard between Colorado street and Second street.

Adjourned.

J. C. SHERER, City Clerk.

FREIGHT CARS SCARCE

If ever the resourcefulness and ingenuity of motor car manufacturers and dealers were put to the test and proved, it has been during the past few months; in fact, ever since the famine in freight cars hit the country. It is safe to say that, as strategists, army generals had nothing on automobile traffic managers who successfully coped with the situation.

The story of how motor cars were moved, despite the freight congestion is an interesting one, tinged with romance and adventure, and involving the matching of wit against wit.

With dealers echoing the clamor of automobile buyers for immediate delivery of their cars, the big problem became one of how to get those cars to their destinations. And it was one of the stiffest problems ever faced by the builders of motor cars.

A big factor, of course, was the unprecedented early demand for automobiles, foretelling, as it did, a record year for the industry. The months of January and February, dull in former years, have found the factories working full force this season, and even putting in many hours of overtime. Production schedules have been increased to take care of the greater demand. The Studebaker Corporation, for instance, contemplates an output of 100,000 cars for 1916, as compared with about half that number last year.

The task of the sales department was an easy one alongside of that of the manufacturing and traffic departments. It was not a question, as in former years, of how to sell the cars, but rather of how to produce them fast enough, and more especially how to provide facilities for shipping the cars that were built.

Due to the alertness of L. J. Ollier, vice-president and director of sales, the Studebaker Corporation has not suffered to any great extent. When the freight situation became acute, Mr. Ollier started the Studebaker traffic department to work with the result that methods never before employed in the automobile industry were adopted.

As soon as it became clear that the shortage in box cars would continue, Mr. Ollier instructed the traffic corps to introduce the use of flat cars and gondolas, and thus overcome the obstacle. For instance, a trainload of 46 flat cars bearing $125,000 worth of Studebaker automobiles was shipped to the Pittsburgh dealer, arriving 24 hours after leaving Detroit. Other trainload shipments went to dealers in Minneapolis, Chicago, Grand Rapids, Saginaw, Toledo, Indianapolis, Cincinati, Cleveland, Youngstown, Akron, Canton, Rochester, Elmira, Albany, Hoboken, Boston, Providence, Bridgeport, Philadelphia and Newark.

But even this plan did not entirely solve the situation. As a result, instead of waiting 'til spring, as used to be the custom, many dealers came to the Detroit factory with members of their force and, clad in fur coats, drove cars over icy roads to their home towns within a 100-mile radius of Detroit. It was no unusual thing to see a string of bright new cars leave the factory, manned by dea'ers who were intent upon keeping delivery promises with their customers.

Still another method had to be frequently employed to take care of dealers at distances off the main railroad line. By this plan dealers would travel to a central point where a trainload shipment had been received, and four or five of them would drive away the cars that made up the entire consignment.

THE BROOK AND THE WAVE

The brooklet came from the mountain,
As sand the bard of old,

Running with feet of silver
Over the sands of gold!
Far away in the briny ocean
There rolled a turbulent wave,
Now singing along the sea-beach,
Now howling along the cave.

And now the brooklet has found the billow;
Though they flowed so far apart,
And has filled with its freshness and sweetness
That turbulent, bitter heart!
—Henry W. Longfellow.

Shame on those who love to do ten-dollar deeds of charity and expect a hundred dollars worth of free advertising in return.

Yet, Polly, it does look hard to sentence a deaf man without a hearing—but giving him two ears might be a blessing, might it not?

Many (too many) men and most hogs are alike in that it is difficult to drive them—but you can "tole" them anywhere, at any time, with a peck of corn or corn-juice!

Too many distrust the neighbor just because she is burdened with being both pretty and popular!

BEAUTY AND UTILITY

"Beauty is Truth, truth beauty,
This is all we know in life and all we need to know."

One does not need to agree with the philosophy of life which was evidently the poet's who wrote these lines, to appreciate the deep truth of the first line. Truth lies usually between two extremes; the poet does not grasp it all neither does the stern utilitarian, and perhaps the best balanced nature, the one that will come the nearest truth for guidance in the duties of everyday life, is the person who can grasp hold of the eternal truth that is to be found in the things that appeal to the senses through the eye and the ear, as well as in the things that are usually considered more common and merely "useful."

These reflections are brought about by the fact that Glendale is in the midst of its first real "Flower Show," something which but a very short time ago would have been thought by far too ambitious an effort for our small city to make, but now, thanks to a few public spirited and energetic of our fellow citizens, is being made a great success. Visitors to this exhibition will see much that is to them new as well as beautiful and many will go home highly resolved to go at once to work and proceed to produce for themselves many of the objects in tree and shrub which has claimed their admiration. For the greatest value of this exhibition will not consist in the things exhibited, but in the suggestion which they will make to beholders, the creation of the resolve to go home and not do likewise but better.

But this resolve born of enthusiasm, even the purchase of seeds, shrubs and trees, will not of themselves be followed by success. One needs only to keep his eyes open in passing along our streets to learn the fact that it is not only necessary to put seeds in the ground, set out shrubs and trees, but to give them persistent care afterwards. It may not be amiss to call attention to at least two common errors made by beginners in the pleasant work of making the outside of a home beautiful. The first is the failure to use water intelligently. A person who has had no previous experience in caring for trees and plants in our dry summer time, is very likely to yield to the temptation to use water too frequently and to substitute the use of hose for the more laborious work of the hoe and rake or the intelligent application of a mulch to conserve the moisture. The second mistake, speaking or ornamental trees, consists in too much trimming, the most common error being the cutting off of branches near the ground. Probably the majority of Auracarias and Magnolias to be seen in Glendale lawns have been spoiled in this manner. It is a pretty good rule to follow in planting ornamental trees, not to plant them if you cannot give them room from the ground up.

But the writer of this article started out to say that it pays to pay attention to the things that are usually considered merely ornamenal—pays in cold cash values. The man or woman who considers ground most valuable for the purpose of raising corn or potatoes, will lose money from year to year by neglecting to plant trees, shrubs and flowers. And if he considers that fruit bearing trees are the only kind to plant on his perhaps small portion of mother Earth, he is also unwise. I have in mind a place that has been built up in Glendale by a man and his wife while making it their home for the past twenty-five years or so, that is an object lesson demonstrating the truth of my theory. During these years the husband has spent much money in planting out orchards of fruit trees and caring for them—because of their generally considered usefulness for the market value of their product. Many tons of fruit have during that time gone to feed the birds and bees and wasted on the ground and the annual income has not been equal to the output in labor, taxes and interest. But the wife, looking out at life from the other point of view, bought trees, flowers, shrubs, looking with prophetic eye to the future and calculating well the growth of what she planted. Now after the passage of the years they look out over a place made beautiful by the planting of the things which did not produce anything that the body could assimilate or wear, but which have given to the ground upon which they grow a tangible value far in excess of any mere utilitarian planting. So in the long run it pays to plan and plant not altogether corn, potatoes and fruits, but the things which minister to the sense of beauty, that is not always developed but which is really in the nature of us all.

—J. C. SHERER.

THE CRUEL WHIP

Especially the "black snake" variety, used by many drivers of hard-worked teams, will be exhibited in museums a hundred years from now, along with spurs, curb bits, overhead check-reins, dog-muzzles, steel traps and other inventions of the devil for torturing animals, and the beholders will wonder how it was possible that such devices for inflicting suffering upon our fellow creatures were permitted to exist, and what kind of men those were that would manufacture and would traffic in those kind of wares in the twentieth century, when millions and millions of dollars were spent, misapplied or squandered upon problematical betterments for the human race for which there existed no demand or need.

The horse, of all animals, is ambitious, and only too willing to exert himself to the limit and beyond his powers in the endeavor to please his master by performing incredible feats of strength and speed, and he is also a very sensitive animal that feels keenly the humiliation of being whipped. Far from whipping or urging on the horse by harsh words and cursing, to strain his muscles and nerves to the breaking point, and then to turn him out a premature wreck, to die of exposure and starvation, his ambition should be checked by kind words to go slow, take his time, rest a little. The horse will protest that he can pull a great deal more or can go much faster; it is wise or humane to abuse his willingness and pile on more and still more and then use whip and spur and break the strength, spirit and ambition of that noble animal? Never! Shame upon the man that uses whip or goad or any kind upon his horse!—New York Women's League for Animals.
